THE BEST NEW BATHS, SHOWERS AND SPLASHBACKS

to a tea

The year was 1852 – the gold rush days – and Henry Langdon, a former captain of the East India Company, arrived in Australia to trade. Five generations later, his family are still merchants and have just released a range of single-estate teas that capture the romance of the Oriental trade in its heyday. With whole spices, petals and hand-picked loose leaves, it's a totally fresh experience. The Henry Langdon Tea Collection is priced from $7.95; Chai Spice tea (pictured), $9.95/canister, Henry Langdon. Call (03) 8360 2669 or visit www.henrylangdon.com to find out where to buy.
